DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

2. Claims 24-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Lee et al..

Lee et al. discloses a length of flexible vacuum hose (fig. 5, #52, fig. 9, #72).

Lee et al. discloses a storage space for the hose within a reach zone of one of a driver and an occupant of a vehicle (fig. 9, #56, col. 6, lines 2-4).

Lee et al. discloses a means preventing the hose from being withdrawn from the space when the vehicle is in drive mode (fig. 9, #58).

With respect to claim 25, Lee et al. discloses the length of hose sufficiently long to reach around the reach zone (fig. 9, #72)

With respect to claim 26, Lee et al. discloses controls within the reach zone to activate and deactivate the vacuum cleaning system (col. 5, lines 45-47, fig. 9, #34).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

4. Claims 18-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lee et al. in view of Sepke and Iaciofano et al..

Lee et al. discloses a similar system however fails to disclose a reel.

Art Unit: 1744

Lee et al. discloses a length of vacuum hose (fig. 5, #52, fig. 9, #72).

Sepke discloses a reel for storage of a length of vacuum hose (fig. 1). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the reel of Sepke in Lee et al. to allow for storage of the length of hose of Lee et al. in a minimum of space.

Lee et al. discloses a storage space in a vehicle for the hose (fig. 5, #50, fig. 9, #56).

With respect to claims 18-20, Iaciofano et al. discloses a reel for a hose having an automatic means for preventing the hose from being removed from the reel (abstract). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the automatic means of Iaciofano et al. in Lee et al. in view of Sepke to prevent the hose from becoming unwound while in the storage space.

With respect to claim 21, Iaciofano et al. discloses a means for disabling the automatic means (col. 3, lines 19-20).

With respect to claim 22, Lee et al. discloses the length of hose sufficiently long to reach around the reach zone (fig. 5, #52)

With respect to claim 23, Lee et al. discloses controls within the reach zone to activate and deactivate the vacuum cleaning system (col. 5, lines 45-47).

5. Claim 27 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lee et al..

Lee et al. discloses a similar vacuum cleaning system however fails to disclose a locking means.

Lee et al. discloses a length of flexible vacuum hose fixed to the vehicle at one end (fig. 5, #52,22).

Lee et al. discloses a storage space in the vehicle, within the reach of a driver or occupant, for the hose (fig. 9, #56, col. 6, lines 2-4).

Lee et al. discloses a means for preventing the hose from being withdrawn from the space (fig. 9, #58). Lee et al. discloses storage of the hose in a trunk, which is known to one of ordinary skill in the art to have a lock thereon. Also, it is to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide locking means to storage spaces that are accessible to a driver or occupant, for instance the glove compartment.

Lee et al. discloses a controls means for disabling the locking means being located in a reach zone of the driver (trunk release latch that is known to be present in vehicles). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide a lock and control means for the lid of the box of Lee et al. to prevent children from gaining access to the contents.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 11/27/2006 with respect to claims 18-27 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant urges Lee does not provide for a storage space within a reach zone of either the driver or an occupant of the vehicle, along with a means for preventing the hose from being withdrawn from the storage space when the vehicle is in the drive mode. Applicant is believed to be in error with this argument because Lee discloses a storage space within a reach zone of either the driver or an occupant of the vehicle (fig. 9, #56, col. 6, lines 2-4). Lee discloses a lid on the space that would prevent the hose from being withdrawn from the space when the vehicle is in drive mode (fig. 9, #58).

Art Unit: 1744

Applicant urges the combination of Lees fails to disclose the operability of the vacuum system during a drive mode of the vehicle and Lee in view of Sepke and Iaciofano fails to disclose means for automatically disabling the unit when the vehicle is in the drive mode. It is noted that the 'automatic disabling means' of claim 18 is for preventing the hose from being removed from the storage space NOT for automatically disabling the vacuum system.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 1-17 are allowed.

Conclusion

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

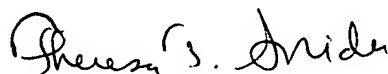

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
